Nine Named To Join NCHSAA Hall of Fame Official Induction Ceremonies Set for April at Friday Center

CHAPEL HILL—Nine more outstanding names in the annals of state prep athletics have been selected for induction into the North Carolina High School Athletic Association Hall of Fame.

Gerald Austin of Greensboro, Pat Harrell of Hertford, Hoy Isaacs of Reidsville, Raymond “Buddy” Luper of Fayetteville, David Maynard of Burlington, Clarence Moore of Asheville, Pres Mull of Lexington, Tom Pryor of Edneyville and Stuart Tripp of Ayden have been chosen as the 17th group of inductees to join the prestigious hall. That brings to 84 the number enshrined.

The new inductees were honored during special halftime ceremonies at a football game at Kenan Stadium when North Carolina played Wake Forest. The University of North Carolina has designated the day as the 18th annual NCHSAA Day. The new class will officially be inducted at the special Hall of Fame banquet April 17 at the Friday Center in Chapel Hill.

The NCHSAA Hall of Fame is supported by a special grant from GlaxoSmithKline.

“These individuals joining the Association Hall of Fame this year have certainly had a tremendous impact on high school athletics across North Carolina,” says NCHSAA associate executive director Rick Strunk, who coordinates the Hall for the Association. “Their records are certainly impressive, but the character they exemplified and the lives they touched are really representative of what the NCHSAA stands for. Their selection maintains the high standards of excellence established by previous inductees, and we are proud to honor these deserving individuals.”

Luper won nine varsity letters at Rocky Mount Senior as an athlete and then had an excellent football career at Duke. After three years as football coach and athletic director at Hickory, Luper came to Fayetteville High School and worked at that school or in the school system for 33 years. From 1965 through '83, he served as an assistant superintendent Fayetteville city system in charge of athletics.

He posted an excellent 114-42-10 mark at Fayetteville as head football coach and was head coach of the North Carolina Shrine team in 1957. One of his former players at Fayetteville was current Carolina Panthers owner Jerry Richardson.

Luper was president of the North Carolina Coaches Association in 1962-63 and then served a term on the Board of Directors of the NCHSAA.

David Maynard

David Maynard has enjoyed a great career in athletics, primarily in Burlington and Alamance County.

A graduate of Burlington's Jordan Sellars Senior High, Maynard was a World War II veteran and then graduated from Johnson C. Smith University in 1950. After working as a teacher and coach at two different schools, including one in Virginia, he returned to Burlington in 1956 and enjoyed great success coaching at Jordan Sellars.

Maynard coached football, basketball, baseball and track during his tenure there. His track teams won 10 conference championships, while his basketball squads won four state championships and had four runner-up finishes in the old North Carolina High School Athletic Conference. The state titles came in 1958, '60, '62 and '66.

He has been a long-time member of the Burlington City Council, elected for six terms since 1977, and had also been very involved in other civic and church activities. He is a member of the Alamance County Sports Hall of Fame.

Clarence Moore

The late Clarence Moore was one of North Carolina's top coaches during his career, which really spanned from 1928 through 1968.

A 1928 graduate of Shaw University, Moore first coached for six years at Highland High in Gastonia, where he was that school's first football coach. He actually had two successful stints as a coach at Stephens-Lee High in Asheville, where he coached football, basketball and basketball from 1934-40 and again from 1948-68.

From 1941 through '47 he was the owner and manager of the famed Asheville Blues baseball team, which is recognized in the Baseball Hall of Fame.

His teams won North Carolina High School Athletic Conference state championships in three sports, going undefeated to win a 1957 state football championship, a baseball crown in '58, and then a basketball title in 1962. Moore was the high school coach for the legendary Henry Logan, who later was an all-American at Western Carolina.

Pres Mull

Presnell Mull was successful at every stop he made during his coaching career.

A native of McDowell County and a 1947 graduate of Appalachian State Teachers College, Mull began his career at Lenoir High, coaching football and girls' basketball. His football teams were a spectacular 37-6-3 there.

After a couple years coaching in the college ranks at Appalachian, Mull went to Lexington Senior High. He had two stints there, first from 1954-58 in which his football teams posted a 42-14 mark. Then from 1962-73, his Lexington teams rolled up a 79-42-8 record and won the 1967 Western North Carolina High School Activities Association (WNCHSAA) championship. He also coached basketball and track and served as athletic director at Lexington.

His two Lexington tenures were around three years as head football coach at Catawba College in Salisbury.

Mull was the head coach of the North Carolina Shrine Bowl team in 1971. He also has been very involved in church and community activities in Lexington.

Tom Pryor

Tom Pryor has won more games as a women's basketball coach than any other coach in North Carolina history.

A 1952 graduate of Edneyville High and then a 1957 graduate of N.C. State, Pryor coached women's basketball for 43 years, with the great majority of that (1957-93) at Edneyville. He also was a head football coach for 13 seasons with a mark of 66-42-5 in that sport, to go with at least three years coaching track, golf, baseball and men's basketball.

He rolled up an amazing 702-244 mark as a women's coach, including 594-191 at Edneyville. He had only two losing seasons in his career, going 63-20 at Asheville School and then 59-23 at Polk County after leaving Edneyville.

Pryor served on the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Athletic Directors Association and also umpired softball for 10 years.

Stuart Tripp

Stuart Tripp amassed an unbelievable record as a coach, almost all at his high school alma mater, Ayden.

A 1940 graduate of Ayden, Tripp then graduated from East Carolina in 1944 and then helped make Ayden into an athletic powerhouse. He coached football, basketball and baseball there from 1946-62, and then after a one-year stint at Tarboro returned to Ayden to coach basketball from 1965-68.

His overall football mark at Ayden was 93-39-4, including a mammoth 45-game win streak. His baseball teams compiled a 100-52 record, while in basketball his teams rolled up a 289-69 slate during his first stint and then went 72-4 in his final three years of coaching upon his return. His teams won seven conference championships in 15 years in football, six in 15 years in baseball, and 12 league titles, including a couple of state championships, in basketball.

Tripp served eight years as an elected official on the Ayden Board of Commissioners. A youth baseball facility in Ayden was constructed and named in his honor, with the money all raised from and by his former athletes.

The Hall of Fame plaques are on permanent display in the North Carolina High School Athletic Association's Hall of Fame room, located in the Simon F. Terrell Building in Chapel Hill that houses the Association offices.

Jerry McGee Earns Prestigious National Award At Conference

INDIANAPOLIS—Jerry McGee, CAA, executive director of the North Carolina Athletic Directors Association (NCADA), is the recipient of the 2003 Thomas E. Frederick Award of Excellence presented by the National Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association (NIAAA).

McGee received the NIAAA Award of Excellence in December in Indianapolis, Indiana, at the 34th annual National Conference of High School Directors of Athletics conducted by the National Federation of State High School Associations (NFHS).

The Thomas E. Frederick Award of Excellence is a prestigious award presented each year to an NIAAA member whose loyalty to the association and contributions to the profession represent excellence in achievement.

The award is named after the late Thomas E. Frederick, who served as NFHS assistant and associate director for 22 years before his retirement in 1989. Frederick was responsible for starting the National Conference of High School Directors of Athletics in 1971 as well as the NIAAA in 1977.

McGee has made several successful contributions to education-based athletic programs - from an athlete in high school and college, to a teacher and coach at the high school and college levels, to his current role as athletic administrator.

McGee has been executive director of the NCADA since 1991, a position he held concurrently as director of athletics at Elizabeth City-Pasquotank (North Carolina) Public Schools until 1997.

As executive director of the NCADA, McGee coordinates North Carolina's state athletic directors conference and has organized the state hall of fame for athletic administrators since 1995.

At the national level, McGee has been North Carolina's state liaison to the NIAAA since 1991 and was part of the NIAAA Delegate Assembly from 1991 to 2001. He also is chairman of the NIAAA State Executive Directors Council and helped organize the first Executive Directors Summit in 2003.

He has also been very active with the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, serving on the NCHSAA Board of Directors, the Awards Committee and the Hall of Fame Selection Committee.

McGee has a long list of recognitions, including the NIAAA State Award of Merit in 1996, the NIAAA Distinguished Service Award in 1998 and the NFHS Citation in 1997.

In 1991, McGee was chosen NCHSAA athletic director of the year. In 1998, he was inducted into the NCADA Hall of Fame and the NCHSAA inducted McGee into its Hall of Fame in 1999.

McGee, who played collegiate football at Duke University, coached football at Kansas State University, Southern Illinois University, East Carolina University and Duke University before returning to high school administration at Elizabeth City Northeastern High School in 1976.

ERIK CONNER has joined the NCHSAA office staff as an office assistant. He may well be the first voice you speak with when you call the Association. Please make him feel welcome as a part of high school athletics in our state.

Interns Have Another Outstanding Semester In NCHSAA Offices

CHAPEL HILL—Another excellent group of students worked during the fall semester in the intern program sponsored by the North Carolina High School Athletic Association.

Interns customarily work six to eight hours a week as volunteers in the NCHSAA offices in addition to their regular academic load. They assist in everything from clerical duties to research on NCHSAA records to helping with Association publications and working at selected state championships.

Those University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill students who worked in the fall semester of 2003 include:

- Daniel Kluttz, a junior at UNC and a graduate of West Rowan High School, where he played football; he is majoring in exercise and sports. His father Henry was a long-time high school principal and served a term on the NCHSAA Board of Directors

- Lindsay Sauls, a junior at UNC and a graduate of Farmville Central High School, where she played volleyball and softball; she is a journalism/history double major and her father is the highly successful Farmville Central football coach and athletic director Dixon Sauls

- Jimmy Leak, a sophomore at Carolina and Cardinal Gibbons High School graduate, where he participated in track and field for four years, throwing the shot put and the discus. He'll be majoring in political science and public policy.

- Lindsay Strunk is working with the Wachovia Conference Cup program and is a graduate of Chapel Hill High School, where she was a four-year starter on the field hockey varsity; she is a junior majoring in health policy administration; and yes, she is the daughter of NCHSAA associate executive director Rick Strunk so she does have a little familiarity with the Wachovia program

The NCHSAA began its intern program back in 1988. Since then almost 150 students, both undergraduate and graduate, from several different colleges and universities have worked at the Association. About two-thirds have come from Association member schools.

NCHSAA interns have gone on to a variety of graduate schools or occupations, including coaching and teaching, sports information, collegiate athletic administration, professional baseball umpiring and business, to name a few. Rick Strunk coordinates the intern program.

Large Turnouts For Regional Meetings Across North Carolina

CHAPEL HILL—For the 32nd consecutive year, the North Carolina High School Athletic Association held its regional meetings across the state in September.

For a two-week span, the NCHSAA took to the road to hold meetings in each of the eight NCHSAA regions. This year's schedule called for meetings to be held in the Western regions during the first week and the meetings in the East the following week.

NCHSAA executive director Charlie Adams and deputy executive director Dick Knox made the full tour, with other staff members joining them at specific locations. A member of the NCHSAA Board of Directors from that specific region serves as chairperson for the meeting.

The meetings included updates on NCHSAA rules and regulations, discussion items for future consideration, question and answer sessions, presentation of regional awards and other items.

Principals and athletic directors of NCHSAA member schools, along with superintendents or other central office personnel who work with athletics, are among the administrators who attend the meetings.

The meeting at the new Murphy Football Center at Carter-Finley

Stadium at North Carolina State University set an all-time regional meeting record in attendance with 170.

Hurricane Isabel forced postponement of the Region 1 and 2 meetings from their original September dates. Those meetings were held in October.

The representatives of the North Carolina Coaches Association and the North Carolina Athletic Directors Association from the particular region also presented reports, and awards were given in several different categories in each region.

Scholarships For Teachers Named In Honor Of Former NCHSAA Director

DURHAM—A special scholarship has been developed and named for one of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association's former executive directors.

A new Honored Educator Scholarship has been established at the North Carolina Center for the Advancement of Teaching as a tribute to Simon Terrell, for whom the NCHSAA offices are named and who served as executive director of the organization from 1967 to 1984.

Willis Whichard of Chapel Hill, dean of the School of Law at Campbell University and vice-president of the Development Foundation of NCCAT, announced creation of the fund during the 45th class reunion at Durham High School in August.

The Simon F. Terrell Scholarships will go to teachers from Durham, Orange, Wake and Warren Counties. The NCCAT scholarship will cover expenses for one teacher each year to attend an NCCAT seminar and includes a cash gift of $250 for classroom use. It also will pay for the services of a substitute teacher while the participant is away from the classroom. The honored educator scholarship program makes it possible for the center to serve for teachers.

NCCAT offers a full complement of professional development activities on a year-round basis for teachers at pre-kindergarten through 12th-grade levels. More than 6,000 teachers attend the seminars each year.

Terrell was an outstanding coach and teacher at Durham High and also coached at John Graham in Warrenton and Cary before joining the NCHSAA. A native of Warrenton, Terrell earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

"Simon Terrell was more than just a coach. He was a teacher in every sense of the word. His subject was life, not just sports," said Whichard, a student of Terrell's at Durham High in the last 1950's as he announced the scholarship. "His genuine interest in his students continues long after they left his classroom. Through them and the many people they have touched, his influence will linger long after both he and they are gone."

NCHSAA Board of Directors Holds Winter Meeting In Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL—The North Carolina High School Athletic Association Board of Directors concluded its regular winter meeting on Wednesday at the Simon F. Terrell Building, the home of the NCHSAA offices.

President Ed Sadler, superintendent of the Gaston County schools, praised the Board for providing leadership for high school athletics and making difficult decisions.

The Board heard an announcement from deputy executive director Dick Knox that he was planning to retire on December 31, 2004. He has been with the NCHSAA for 20 years and was praised by both Sadler and executive director Charlie Adams for his great service.

The Board also voted to drop Laurinburg Charter School from the NCHSAA membership for several violations, including using non-certified officials and playing in a number of non-sanctioned tournaments in men's basketball, and failing to respond to repeated requests for information. Laurinburg Charter appealed the decision of the Review/Officiating Committee to the full Board, but the Board upheld the decision.

The school could reapply for membership after a year.

The Board also voted to affirm the decision to move this year's 1-A championship football games, scheduled for Wallace Wade Stadium in Durham, to Sunday afternoon and evening, December 7, because of a conflict with a nationally televised Duke basketball game.

Among the highlights, other actions included:

— a total of $119,234 will be returned to the NCHSAA member schools from the Endowment fund to help offset the cost of catastrophic insurance. The fund itself has grown to $4.8 million.

— ejections continue to decline in all sports. Football and men's soccer are both down substantially in ejections for this year, with football currently at 60 ejections for all schools for the 2003 season.

— the beginning date of fall sports practice for 2004 has been set for Wednesday, July 28

— the starting time for the state track and field championships on a Friday will be moved from 3 p.m. to noon to get student-athletes home at an earlier hour — in basketball, the sectional qualifiers to the regional tournament will be established, and then it will be determined which ones will go to the Eastern Regional and which ones head West. It might help reduce travel in certain situations for schools.

— ad hoc committees were appointed to study the length of seasons and the eligibility issue of a player transferring schools and playing for a second school in the same sport and the same sport season — in bracketed team sports, the NCHSAA will go to playing at the higher seed throughout the rounds prior to the championship, and using a predetermined seeding priority when equal seeds meet. That way a number-one team would always be at home against a number-two, and if there were equal seeds the host would be predetermined by the seeding priority. The priority is already used in soccer and basketball.

The next Board of Directors meeting will be held in Winston-Salem in early May.

Carolina Panthers Unveil Wall Of Champions Highlighting Prep Football

CHARLOTTE—The Carolina Panthers have unveiled a tribute to high school football at Ericsson Stadium.

The Wall of Champions was first displayed at the Atlanta Falcons—Carolina Panthers game in late September. The Wall of Champions features framed jerseys of all 2002 North and South Carolina high school football champions, both public and private schools, as well as the jersey of the 2002 Shrine Bowl champion. The display includes each team's classification, record and head coach's name. The Wall of Champions is located at the East gate concourse inside Ericsson Stadium.

"The Carolina Panthers are proud supporters of high school football in North and South Carolina. Prep football plays an important role in communities across the region and we are excited to recognize these teams which have achieved the highest on-field honor, that of state champion," said Riley Fields, director of community relations for the Panthers.

On Albert's behalf, North Surry High School will receive a $1,000 Lowe's gift card and a $500 donation will be made to the Surry County Sheriff's Christmas Fund, a charity chosen by Albert.

"Albert is an outstanding student and is currently ranked first in his class," said Terri E. Mosley, North Surry's principal. "He has received numerous academic honors, including a Morehead Scholar nomination. And while he could easily rest on his laurels and focus only on his own interests and pursuits, Albert continues to turn his attention outward to focus on others."

Hickory Public Schools Recognize State Champs In Unique Fashion

HICKORY—The Hickory Public Schools are celebrating their 100th anniversary this year, and the school system recently had what it called "an evening with our state champions" as part of "Celebrating a Century of Excellence."

At halftime of a Hickory High School football game with nearby rival St. Stephens, the community recognized both current and former student-athletes from the school system who had earned state championships in either team or individual sports.

The Centennial Committee prepared a booklet that was distributed at the game, providing a listing of all the state championships won by the system's student-athletes and a history of the 97 different titles won by individuals or teams in 14 different sports spanning seven different decades.

Hickory athletes have won crowns in the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, the old Western North Carolina High School Activities Association and the North Carolina High School Athletic Conference, the organization for black high schools.

Ridgeview High in 1948 won an NCHSAC title in men's basketball and was the first team from Hickory to earn a state crown.

One of the individual state champions, swimmer Cathy Burgess, captured a state swimming title at the age of 14 and later went on to swim at the University of North Carolina. She served as an intern in the NCHSAA offices who went on to become a middle school teacher and is now the current Hickory High swim coach.

A senior at North Surry, Albert has amassed more than 450 hours of volunteer community service during his high school career. Volunteer activities include membership in Youth Leadership Surry, the Student Council, working with Habitat for Humanity - Mt. Airy, raising money for the Surry County Sheriff's Christmas Fund and organizing food drives.

He is an active member of North Surry's DREAM Team and has participated in the Student Athlete Summer Institute program of NCHSAA. He is a two-sport athlete, running cross-country and playing golf. In addition to his accomplishments in class and in athletics, Albert received a Danforth "I Dare You" Leadership award, a national award given each year by the Danforth Foundation to high school juniors who exemplify leadership potential.

"Albert has inspired our student body, both by setting a strong example and by creating opportunities to become actively involved in community service projects," said Shane Slate, North Surry's athletic director.

Kim, a senior at North Wilkes, spends each season during the academic year participating in athletics, including volleyball, basketball and track. She was a member of the 2002-03 team honored in the NCHSAA Scholar-Athlete program for the highest GPA in the state among women's basketball teams, and was co-captain of the track team her sophomore year. Kim entered her senior year with a 3.958 GPA.

"For some this would be too much, but Kim also consistently takes the most challenging courses in school," said Michael Greene, North Wilkes High School's women's track coach and assistant basketball coach. "Not only does she take these courses but she excels in them, ranking near the top of her class."

Kim is a member of North Wilkes High School's Key Club and Beta Club, and through these organizations she helped in such projects as Adopt-A-Family at Christmas and coat and canned food drives. Outside of school, Kim has volunteered with the Make-A-Wish Foundation and is an active member of her church. She also holds down a part-time job.

Kim is constantly striving for excellence and is always looking for ways to improve and enhance her performance, be it on the court, on the track or in the classroom," said John Worley, principal of North Wilkes High School. "She is a great student and great athlete, but above all, she is a tremendous person."

"We are pleased to recognize all these student's accomplishments with the Lowe's Hometown Hero award," said Gray Abercrombie, Lowe's divisional marketing manager. Lowe's, in conjunction with the Carolina Panthers, has joined together with the NCHSAA to offer the Lowe's Hometown Heroes recognition program. This program seeks to acknowledge high school students in North Carolina who have begun building their own strong foundations through personal commitment to their local community, academics and athletics. For more information about the program visit <http://www.nchsaa.unc.edu/loweshometownhero.html>.

With 2002 sales of $26.5 billion, Lowe's Companies, Inc. is a FORTUNE 100 company that serves approximately nine million customers a week at more than 900 home improvement stores in 45 states. NCHSAA Game Official Involved In Daring Rescue During Hurricane Isabel KILL DEVIL HILLS—There are many stories involving Hurricane Isabel, but one particular compelling one involves an attempted rescue and a North Carolina High School Athletic Association game official.

The Associated Press reported that rescuers sent to help people trapped by the hurricane almost became victims themselves, spending nearly five hours in four feet of turbulent water after waves rolled their truck upside down.

Three people had called 911 for help, saying they were stuck in the Pea Island National Wildlife Refuge on Hatteras Island with water rising into the cab of their sport utility.

Dare County deputy Melvin Walston, who is a registered NCHSAA official, along with deputy George Bowman and Coast Guard officer Tim Pike were sent to rescue them. However, their truck dropped into a low spot on the sand-covered road and broke something in the drive train. And while they were trying to don life jackets, a wave broadsided the truck and knocked it on its side and a second wave turned the truck upside.

The two men tried to free Walston, who had been driving, and he finally escaped the vehicle before a third wave turned the truck on its side again.

As the rushing water threatened to sweep them away, according to the AP report, the three rescuers tied themselves to the truck with 40-foot lengths of rope, long enough to avoid being crushed by the truck if it rolled over again.

Eventually, the water ebbed enough for the rescuers themselves and the people whom they were to rescue to walk to Rodanthe on Hatteras Island.

Advertisers Make Championship Programs Successful For Association

Whether it is at the local high school level, in a collegiate program, the professional ranks—or with the North Carolina High School Athletic Association—advertisers are critical to the success of a souvenir game program.

The NCHSAA has been able to produce outstanding championship programs in a number of different sports over the years, largely because of good support from Chapel Hill-Carrboro and the surrounding area. The books feature not only up-to-date information about the championship participants and lots of copy about special NCHSAA programs and activities, but they include advertisements for these supporting companies.

The Association wishes to salute those advertisers, whose ads you will be seeing in championship publications throughout the year, and we certainly hope you will take advantage of their goods and services when appropriate.

In addition to the support provided by the NCHSAA corporate sponsors, whose ads are also in the programs, the list for current advertisers for the 2003-2004 championship programs at this time includes:

NCHSAA Coach-Captain Retreat Attracts Students From Across North Carolina

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK—The North Carolina High School Athletic Association held its fall 2003 Coach-Captain Retreat, the 18th in a series of successful events.

The event, part of the Association's Student Services program, was held at the Radisson Governors Inn and attracted students from all over North Carolina.

Retreat teams include student-athletes who will be captains or leaders of their athletic squads in the coming year, a coach from the school and a parent representative. They are designed to promote the concept of "teamwork." Issues such as leadership development, alcohol, tobacco and other drugs, violence prevention strategies and academic success are addressed at these retreats, the first of which was held in the spring of '95.

The retreats are designed to help student-athletes define leadership qualities, identify key issues that affect them, learn to communicate effectively with other students and adults about these issues, and then to understand what captains can do to use their influence to prevent problems and promote healthy lifestyles.

Coach-Captain retreats are organized and administered by NCHSAA associate executive director Que Tucker and student services assistant Amy Peacock.

Facilitators included the following NCHSAA Student Services Trainers: Mike Brown, retired athletic director from the New Hanover County schools and president of B&M Associates; P.J. Taylor, former coach at Williamston High and safe and drug free schools coordinator for the Martin County Schools; Beth Jaharias, early childhood specialist and former teacher from Raleigh; Ralph Holloway, principal at East Carteret High School and former athletic director and coach; and Joey Womble, an alternative school director for the Washington County schools.

Other facilitators included Patrick Gunn, a coach at Topsail High School; Teresa Coleman, a coach at West Bladen, and Faye Corbin, a coach at Hope Mills South View.

Teams always conclude their retreat experience by developing an action plan, something that can be taken back and executed in their local school. Among the components of the action plan are bulletin boards in the school, public service announcements for the school intercom, a community service project, a newsletter for student-athletes or some other idea generated by the team.

There were over 110 participants in the retreat, with a total of 77 student-athletes and 35 adults attending. The adult total included 21 coaches, representing a total of 19 different schools.

Teams at the retreat represented the following schools:

Charlotte Zebulon Vance, Creswell, Davie, Dixon, Durham Hillside, Greensboro Grimsley, Greenville D.H. Conley, High Point Central, Hope Mills South View, Matthews David Butler, Monroe Sun Valley, Perquimans, Raleigh Sanderson, Southern Alamance, Southern Vance, Southwestern Randolph, Swansboro, Weldon, and West Bladen.

VOLLEYBALL

Western Representatives Sweep Volleyball Titles

RALEIGH—The Western teams dominated in the 2003 North Carolina High School Athletic Association's state volleyball championships, as the 28th annual edition of the finals saw all four Western teams take titles in action at Reynolds Coliseum.

The program opened with the 3-A championship, as senior outside hitter Audra Harrison led Newton Fred T. Foard to its second consecutive state 3-A volleyball championship as Foard rolled past Manteo in three consecutive games.

Harrison was named the Most Valuable Player of the championship match for the second consecutive year as the Tigers downed Manteo 25-17, 25-11 and 25-21.

It was Foard's fifth state volleyball championship in the last nine years. Manteo finished the season 23-4 in its first appearance in a state volleyball final.

Chapel Hill survived a tremendous rally by Wilmington Hoggard in a thrilling 4-A match, as the Tigers prevailed 25-15, 25-19, 21-25, 19-25, 15-13.

Senior outside hitter Michelle Bruin of Chapel Hill was named the MVP of the 4-A final.

It was the Tigers' second state volleyball crown to go with a 1994 title as Chapel Hill ended the year at 30-2. Hoggard, in its fourth appearance in the championships but still looking for its first state title in volleyball, wound up 30-4 overall.

Chapel Hill fell behind 13-7 in the fifth and final game before scoring eight unanswered points to rally to win.

Starmount defeated Topsail in four games to earn the 1-A championship in the third final of the day.

Starmount's Kerry Wooten was a force at the net for the Rams and earned MVP honors for the 1-A classification. Starmount took the first two games of the final, by 25-14 and 25-20, before Topsail came back to win game three by 25-21.

But Starmount bolted to a 16-8 lead in the game and went on to take the clincher, 25-14.

Starmount improved its record to 29-2 on the season while Topsail ended its year at 25-4.

He began the season not too far behind the long-time record holder, Lawrence "Cotton" Clayton, who played at Zeb Vance High in Kittrell from 1956-59. Clayton scored 2,758 points during his prep career.

Top Coaching Marks Listed As Reported By Schools

Each school in the North Carolina High School Athletic Association is required to complete a School Information Sheet, and this document contains a lot of facts and figures about each of the NCHSAA's 350 member schools. This information is used in a variety of ways, including sports mailings, entries in the NCHSAA Directory, and the listing of coaches' career records.

Association intern Daniel Klutz, a UNC student from West Rowan, did an outstanding job going through the information sheets, compiling these lists. The following lists are not intended to be comprehensive or complete, but are based information submitted by schools that returned that portion of the School Information Sheets.

We have taken care to make this list as accurate as possible. These records are for active coaches only, and if a coach at your school or in your area is not listed, it is probably because the records were not included on the form. If there are additions or corrections, please let us know because we want it to be as accurate as possible.

This has become sort of an annual tradition in the Bulletin. We appreciate all those schools which take the time to submit the information, and we appreciate the efforts of our interns to do the research.

We are glad to recognize these outstanding teachers and coaches from across the state of North Carolina.

In some cases, the NCHSAA did not receive updated figures for these coaches so listed are the last available figures we received.
