Dear Hall of Fame Selection Committee,

I am honored to recommend Frederick "Fred" Davis for induction into the North Carolina High School Athletic Association (NCHSAA) Hall of Fame. Coach Davis exemplifies the ideals of excellence in coaching, mentorship, and community leadership, leaving an indelible mark on our school, town, and state. As the winningest football coach in Anson High School history, he has demonstrated a level of dedication and impact few can match, inspiring generations of athletes and students.

Throughout his storied career, Coach Davis has not only led his teams to countless victories but has also profoundly influenced the lives of his players. With over 100 student-athletes sent to college programs, Coach Davis has consistently worked to unlock each player's full potential, emphasizing discipline, sportsmanship, and academic success. His belief in the value of education and his drive to shape leaders has set a standard in high school athletics. Beyond his remarkable achievements on the field, he was selected to coach in both the prestigious Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star game, a testament to his expertise and respect among his peers.

Coach Davis's dedication to the community is equally remarkable. As an active and respected member of Anson County, he serves as a pillar in both his church and school district, continually giving back to those around him. His service on the town council reflects his unwavering commitment to improving the lives of others, creating a better community for all. His integrity and commitment have made him a beloved figure in our town and beyond.

I can think of no one more deserving of the honor of induction into the NCHSAA Hall of Fame. Coach Davis has not only built a legacy of athletic excellence but also created a lasting positive influence that will continue to inspire our school, community, and state. I wholeheartedly endorse Fred Davis for this recognition.

Dear Hall of Fame Selection Committee,

Reflecting on Fred Davis's profound impact on various individuals, including coaches, church members, former players, students, and community citizens, I acknowledge an abundance of qualified recommenders for his North Carolina High School Athletic Association (NCHSAA) Hall of Fame nomination. As his daughter and proud nominator, I have had the privilege of witnessing his remarkable personal and athletic achievements.

My father's distinguished coaching career in our small town was highlighted by his progression from junior varsity basketball coach to head football coach of the Anson High Bearcats, notable representation of seven players in the Shrine Bowl, and culmination of his coaching tenure with an unprecedented record for most wins in Anson High football history. Throughout his career, I observed numerous acts of kindness and commitment to his players' well-being, including memorable experiences such as assisting former players with college relocation. Although my dad, Fred Davis ended his coaching career in 2002, it didn't end the lasting impact he had on his players and even students. Still to this day I love getting testimonials on social media, run ins, or looking at old newspapers of how he influenced the youth and community. Therefore, I am honored of hearing what a outstanding individual he is.

In closing, I endorse not only an exceptional coach, but also a devoted father, husband, deacon, former principal, and mayor. I am honored to nominate my dad, who has demonstrated selfless dedication to his players and the community through numerous charitable acts, including partnering with local restaurants to provide meals to those in need, delivering bikes to children during Christmas, and his infamous distributing $2 bills to kids during the holidays. His commitment extends beyond his role, providing timely assistance to ensure students' basic needs are met and consistently visiting the sick and shut-in. As his daughter, I proudly nominate him to represent his community, school districts, and the state as a deserving NCHSAA Hall of Fame member.

With immense thanks for consideration,

Proud daughter to a great pillar of the community,
Shannon Davis
